

Spike Island

PRESS RELEASE
DENZIL FORRESTER
ITCHIN & SCRATCHIN
Opening 17 October 2020

Spike Island's galleries reopen to the public this autumn with a major solo exhibition by Denzil Forrester. Spanning more than 40 years, Itchin & Scratchin brings together a selection of paintings and recent drawings by Grenada-born, British artist Denzil Forrester. Pulsing with music and motion, these works depict scenes that are by turns intimate and ecstatic; singular records of Afro-Caribbean experience in Britain.

From the late 1970s, Forrester was a regular at the dub-reggae clubs of East London. There he began to make drawings of MCs and dancers, sound systems and strobes. On dark dancefloors, he would sketch quickly, for the time it took the DJ to play a single track. Later transformed into large-scale paintings, these nocturnal works capture rhythm, ambience and movement.

*"When you're an artist in a public arena, you have to be dynamic. I wasn't interested in just drawing an individual standing in front of me; I was interested in capturing the energy of the whole room."*¹

In the late 1960s, around the time Forrester moved from Grenada to London, dub music was being developed in Kingston, Jamaica. It involved creating remixed instrumental versions of vocal tracks, and manipulating them with echo, reverb and delay. These sound effects are also central to Forrester's paintings, many of which are titled after dub records.

Now based in Cornwall, Forrester visited Jamaica for the first time in 2019, making a new body of work shaped by Kingston's sound systems and 1 Denzil Forrester interviewed by Osei Bonsu, frieze issue 204, June–August 2019: <https://www.frieze.com/article/denzil-forrester-i-had-find-something-shook-me>.

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL
ENGLAND

Spike Island Artspace Limited
Registered charity no. 1003505
Registered in England
and Wales no. 2624621
VAT no. 650 5760 40

open-air parties. Across four decades, Forrester's work has explored ways of seeing sound and capturing the energy of the nightclub.

– Ends –

Image: Denzil Forrester, Dub Dance (1993) Oil on board. Copyright Denzil Forrester. Courtesy the artist and Stephen Friedman Gallery, London

For further information and high-resolution images please contact Jane Faram, Communications Manager at Spike Island on jane.faram@spikeisland.org.uk or +44 (0)117 9292266.

ARTIST BIOGRAPHY

- Denzil Forrester (b. 1956, Grenada, based in Truro, UK) studied at the Central School of Art, London in 1979 and at the Royal College of Art, London in 1983. Recent solo exhibitions include: A Survey, Stephen Friedman Gallery, London (2019); From Trench Town to Porthowan, Jackson Foundation, St. Just (2018); White Columns, New York; Tramps, London (both 2016), all curated by Peter Doig and Matthew Higgs; Two Decades of Painting, The Edward Wilmot Blyden Project (2002); Memory and Images, Peterborough Museum & Art Gallery (1996). His work has been included in group exhibitions at Somerset House, London (2019); Tate Britain, London; Metro Pictures, New York (both 2017); Royal Academy of Arts, London (2000); The Studio Museum in Harlem, New York (1997); Barbican Art Gallery, London (1995); Whitechapel Gallery, London (1986) and Ashmolean Museum, Oxford (1984). He was awarded a scholarship by the British School at Rome in 1983-85 and a Harkness Fellowship in New York in 1986-88. Forrester's commissioned work, Brixton Blue, a reinterpretation of his seminal work Three Wicked Men (1982), is on view at Brixton Underground station in South London until September 2020.

NOTES FOR EDITORS

- Itchin & Scratchin is presented in partnership with Nottingham Contemporary, where the exhibition is on display until 31 August 2020. With support from Stephen Friedman Gallery, London.
- Spike Island is an international centre for the development of contemporary art and design, located close to Bristol's harbourside. It is a place where artists and the public can meet, enabling audiences to engage with artists' research and production. Within the 80,000 square foot building, Spike Island offers visitors a year-round programme of internationally relevant exhibitions, events and activities, as well as providing working space for artists, designers and creative businesses. The link between the production and presentation of art on this scale and under one roof is unique within the UK. Spike Island's programme emphasises the commissioning of new ambitious work and often provides artists their first significant gallery exhibition in the UK. Spike Island Exhibition Services support the development of commissions, including in-house post production facilities for artists' film and video, audio visual technical services and equipment provision for ambitious moving image installations, on site fabrication workshops, resin rooms, skilled art technicians and fabricators.

www.spikeisland.org.uk

Nottingham Contemporary

Stephen Friedman Gallery

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL
ENGLAND

Spike Island Artspace Limited
Registered charity no. 1003505
Registered in England
and Wales no. 2624621
VAT no. 650 5760 40